Training Program

Week 1

The first week of any training program is crucial – here you start to build the blocks of perseverance, consistency, and confidence.

Physically and mentally, the first week of a program is usually the hardest.

But trust us, it gets easier from here!

- Monday Rest day
- Tuesday 3km warm-up. 8 x 400m hard, with 2 min jog recovery. 3km cool-down. Hard efforts done at your 5km PB pace.
- Wednesday Rest day
- Thursday Active recovery/rest day
- Friday 6km easy run
- Saturday Rest day
- Sunday 8km easy. Pace should be comfortable (able to maintain a short conversation) and about ~65% of maximum heart rate.

Awesome job – you've just finished your first week of training!

Week 2

Getting into this routine, with regular exercise and familiar stimuli applied to your body, is going to help you stay consistent. Your body will start adapting as you become a better runner.

Keep at it!

- Monday Rest day
- Tuesday 3km warm-up. 6 x 600m hard, with 3 min jog recovery. 3km cool-down. Hard efforts done at your 5km PB pace.
- Wednesday Rest day
- Thursday Active recovery/rest day
- Friday 7km easy run
- Saturday Rest day
- Sunday 9km easy. Pace should be comfortable (able to maintain a short conversation) and about ~65% of maximum heart rate.

You're halfway there. You can totally do this!

Week 3

Now entering halfway of the program, we're starting to get a little more serious with higher intensity workouts. This will help bring down your time for your 10K by getting used to running at faster speeds.

After getting through this week you should start to feel fitter and more confident about being able to cover the 10K distance. Set yourself a goal time that you'd like to complete the 10K in – write it down somewhere that you'll see it daily to keep yourself motivated.

- Monday Rest day
- Tuesday 3km warm-up. 8 x 500m hard, with 3 min jog recovery. 3km cool-down. Hard efforts done at your 5km PB pace.
- Wednesday Rest day
- Thursday Active recovery/rest day
- Friday 3km easy + 10 x (1 min hard, 1 min easy) + 3km easy.
- Saturday Rest day
- Sunday 8km easy. Pace should be comfortable (able to maintain a short conversation) and about ~65% of maximum heart rate.

Keep on track!

Week 4

Crunch time! This is the most challenging week of the program, but once you finish your 10K run, you'll look back and think 'Wow! I've come so far in just one month!'

- Monday Rest day
- Tuesday 3km warm-up. 6 x 400m hard, with 2 min jog recovery. 3km cool-down. Hard efforts done at your 5km PB pace.
- Wednesday Rest day
- Thursday Active recovery/rest day
- Friday 6km easy run
- Saturday Rest day
- Sunday RACE DAY!

Or if you're doing your race next week, very easy 4km–5km. Make sure you rest the day before your run!

Congratulations! You finished your training and are ready to run. Good luck!
